98% of all Aubrey Allen meat products are from the British Isles.

Aubrey Allen remain committed to sourcing all our core meat products from the British Isles.

All of our lambs come from the South-West of England.

Both our free-range and our outdoor reared pork are from the East of England. Using this high welfare pork we procure all our own bacon.

Our free-range chicken suppliers are predominantly from England, and this volume could be increased if we were to cease our free-range French chicken.

All of our beef is from the British Isles, including our fantastic Earl Stonham Wagyu.

We have worked with many of our suppliers for over 20 years; we pay them fortnightly and this stands us in good stead in the supply chain for all products.

We have English charcuterie and a wide range of English cheeses, as well as Italian style English substitutes.

The status quo of European British trading will continue until at least December 2020 as the period of transition to allow infrastructure to be put in place to deal with new regulations.

There may be an increase in prices if demand goes up, which we will deal with in the appropriate manner, on notice.
